Leung Ming Shin Jade
Associate of Social Science in Social Work
Graduated in 2013

Currently practicing as a medical social worker, Jade started her education in this academic subject at the College. Jade completed the Associate of Social Science in Social Work Programme in 2013. With several admission offers, she finally chose to study gerontology at the Chinese University of Hong Kong to equip herself with essential medical knowledge. She furthered her studies by obtaining a Master's Degree in Social Work at the Chinese University of Hong Kong, thereby positioning herself well in terms of qualifications for her present job as a medical social worker. "Although I have now obtained master's degree and professional qualifications, I would attribute my foundation to the College." Jade found that the two-year social work education in the College was an important stage in her professional development. "A flower cannot blossom without the support of its roots and stem," she said.
